First Responders						The Revolution

Game Summary:

Team Timeout:

The Revolution wins their third game in their last four to jump into fourth place in the standings as they get timely scoring late in this game while playing shutdown defense.

First Responders still searches for their team identity and consistency along with consistent scoring. It's not like they aren't getting their chances on offense; they just aren't burying their chances!

Fill-in player Dan Poiriere Sr. comes in and makes the most of his opportunity to stand out, scoring the hat trick to lead the team's offense.

Manny Nunes continues to be the engine that drives this team to wins as the playmaker, as he scores 1-goal and sets up three others to factor into all the goals his team scores.

Rich Pelletier has his running legs going along with his playmaking game as he sets up three of the goals scored.

Fill in goalie Jeremy Kelly bounces back from his earlier game to post a solid shutdown stopping all 24 shots he faces.
