The Revolution

Game Summary:

First Responders gets back to their winning ways, winners of four of their last five games, with a big win to jump into second place in the team standings. With a lot of their top players missing, they show their depth on offense, as the secondary players step up to carry the offense (including from one old timer).

The Revolution is missing too many key players on offense and defense that catches up to them as they give up five unanswered goals and run out of gas in the third period turning this into a one-sided game, ending their two game winning streak.

Captain Dominic Defrancisco leads the way, as he factors into all of his teams goals with 2-goals and 3-assists, breaking a three game goal scoring drought, while also making a big jump up in the leading scorers race.

Tony Bono shocks everyone and breaks out on offense for his team, scoring 2-goals to swing the momentum over to his team, while setting up another goal. For one game, Tony was a top player on offense for his team. Well done Tony!

Dave Wilson, flying under the radar for his team all season, makes a statement this game as a playmaker, setting up all three goals his team scores in the third period to break open a close game into a rout.

Mike Luise returns to action after a four game stint out on IR, to score his team's only goal and his first goal all season.
